

Green Bay, WI (3/3/25) – EUA is now open in Tiletown. The firm moved from their De Pere location to the newly designed second-floor suite and marks an exciting new chapter for our team and clients.

“EUA’s Green Bay employees are excited to be in Tiletown, a location with such a rich and iconic history,” said EUA Vice President Doug Page. The strategic move to Tiletown is rooted in EUA’s values of being embedded in the communities we serve.

“All our office locations are immersed in the hearts of their cities – Atlanta, Denver, Madison and Milwaukee – and now we’ve joined one of the most vibrant districts in Green Bay,” said EUA President Kristin Dufek. “These areas are optimal bases for serving our clients and communities, supporting business partners, and attracting and retaining talent.”

EUA partnered with the Green Bay Packers, an ongoing client, on the design of the new two-story multitenant building. Additional tenants coming to the building include Packers Athletic Club and Titledown Daily Grind. The Packers own the Titledown community development, just west of Lambeau Field.

The new office is designed to support team-based projects, fostering collaboration and inspiring creativity. Featuring an open-concept plan with multiple conference rooms, the flexible space can adapt to accommodate the team's needs while encouraging interaction and knowledge sharing. A versatile breakroom with a private patio offers space for both work and socializing, and a separate presentation room with a nearly 14-foot glass facade overlooks Titledown and Lambeau Field, providing a perfect setting for hosting clients.

"We thrive on collaboration and creatively elevating the unique potential of those we serve," Page said. "The new space in Titledown advances this purpose and our pursuit of design excellence."

EUA looks forward to welcoming clients and partners to our new location!
